

Dialogue Between Two Friends

Talking About Studies

Emma: Hi Lucy! Have you finished your homework?

Lucy: Not yet. I'm still working on my science project.

Emma: Oh, same here! It's a bit difficult.

Lucy: Yes, but I think we can finish it by tonight.

Emma: Let's help each other then!

Oliver: Hey Jack, how was your English test?

Jack: It went well! I studied hard this time.

Oliver: That's good! I found the grammar part tricky.

Jack: Yeah, but practice really helps.

Oliver: You're right. I'll study more next week.

Dialogue Between Two Friends

Talking About Holidays

Sophie: Hi Mia! Any plans for the summer holidays?

Mia: Yes! My family is going to Italy.

Sophie: Wow! That sounds exciting.

Mia: I can't wait to see the beaches there.

Sophie: Take lots of pictures and share them!

Ben: Hey Lucas, what did you do during your winter break?

Lucas: I visited my grandparents in the countryside.

Ben: That must have been peaceful.

Lucas: Yes, it was! I helped my grandpa in the garden.

Ben: Sounds lovely! I just stayed home and relaxed.

Dialogue Between Two Friends Talking About a New Hobby

Ella: Hi Grace! What are you up to these days?

Grace: I've started painting in my free time.

Ella: Really? That's wonderful!

Grace: Yes, it helps me relax after school.

Ella: I'd love to see your paintings sometime.

Noah: Hey Leo! Do you still play guitar?

Leo: Yes, but I've also started learning photography.

Noah: Nice! What kind of photos do you take?

Leo: Mostly nature and city scenes.

Noah: Cool! You should show me your pictures soon.

Dialogue Between Two Friends

Planning a Trip

Hannah: Hi Lily! Shall we plan a trip this weekend?

Lily: Great idea! Where do you want to go?

Hannah: How about the mountains?

Lily: Perfect! I'll bring some snacks and games.

Hannah: Awesome, I'll arrange the transport.

Ethan: Hey James, are you free next month?

James: I think so. Why?

Ethan: Let's go on a short trip to Spain.

James: That sounds fun! Let's check train tickets.

Ethan: Good plan! I'll book the hotel once we decide.

Dialogue Between Two Friends Talking About Weather

Chloe: Hi Ava! It's raining again today.

Ava: I know! I forgot my umbrella.

Chloe: Same here! I love the rain, but it's too cold.

Ava: Yes, hot tea would be perfect right now.

Chloe: Let's grab some after class!

William: Hey Henry, the weather is so hot today!

Henry: Yes, it feels like summer already.

William: I hope it rains soon.

Henry: Me too, the air is too dry.

William: Let's go for ice cream to cool down!
